Child Seat Requirements

Germany has relatively strict laws when it comes to child safety while driving. German law requires that any child up to 12 years of age who are less than 59 inches tall must ride in an approved car seat or booster. Any child under the age of three may not be in a moving vehicle without a suitable car seat and no rear facing infant seats are allowed in the front seat of a vehicle with airbags.

These laws also apply when riding in a taxi.

Driving With Your Dog

=3932889

Dogs usually enjoy car rides. Germany has very strict laws when it comes to dogs, with about 10 laws for dogs for every one law for humans! German law requires that when traveling with your dog that they must wear a harness. You can buy a harness in Germany or pay less to have one shipped to you.

Top Paw Pet Safety Car Harness with Tether

<http://www.petsmart.com/product/index.jsp?productId=3932889>

For large dogs, ADAC, similar to the AAA in the US, recommends a crate or carrier in the back of the car. As for smaller dogs, ADAC recommends harness made with large belts, sturdy metal attachments and two tie-ins. FOR MORE PET-RELATED INFO, CLICK HERE!

Emergency Auto Kit

German law requires that all automobiles have a portable red reflective triangle and a first aid kit (DIN number 13164) in their trunk. If a car is stopped for any reason, the triangle must be placed 200 meters behind it if on the autobahn and 100 meters behind it on all other roads. The car's emergency flashers should also be turned on. Also required are reflective vests, there should be enough for each person riding in the car.

Specific Tires for Germany

Most German motorists have long known the old rule of thumb for putting snow tires on the car: “von O bis O.” The term “from O to O” is short for “from October to Easter” (von Oktober bis Ostern). It is a recommendation that one should make the change from regular tires to snow tires in October, and leave them on until Easter.

The new German law does not set any time limits, but it does clearly state that under icy conditions (bei Glatteis, Schneeglätte, Schneematsch, Eis- und Reifglätte) you must not drive without snow tires on your vehicle. So, since it’s difficult to predict the weather, for all practical purposes, the old “von O bis O” rule still applies. (In Austria, winter tires are mandatory from November 1 to April 15.)

The new law also spells out what a “winter tire” is. Specifically, it is an M+S-Reifen, a mud-and-snow tire that has an official M+S (Matsch und Schnee) marking on it. (M+S tires do not have to be “winter” tires. All-year or all-weather M+S tires also qualify.) The German automobile club ADAC recommends going a step further and getting tires with the “three-peak-mountain” seal, an indication of snow tires that meet the highest standards.

ADAC also makes another recommendation that goes beyond the minimum requirements of the law. While the Straßenverkehrsordnung (StVO) requires a minimum snow tire tread depth (Profiltiefe) of 1.6 mm, ADAC ups that to 4.0 mm.

Parents can also elect to enroll their children in private schools, host nation school, or even home schools may also enroll their children in DoDDS on a part-time basis to permit them to complete graduation requirements or to obtain a course required for admission to a specific post-graduation program. Home-schooled students are authorized to attend DoDDS classes for any courses needed to support their academic schedule. If you are interested in home-schooling, there is a support group in the KMC area: The Christian Home Educator Support Group. <http://www.hslda.org/orgs/?OrgID=5089128> & http://www.bigdir-reference.com/europe-germany-kaiserslautern-military-community-christian-home-educators_s39018.html

You may also choose to enroll your children in German schools rather than American schools. To do so, you must visit the school in or near the village in which you lives to register your child.

Heating Oil

After you arrive, you may choose to live off post. You should be aware that the majority of the homes use oil as their heating source. As you go house hunting, be sure to check if the home you are looking at uses oil or not. Assess your needs. Check your tank specifications, including the size of the tank and the full capacity. You will need this to calculate how much oil you will need for your home. Usually, an oil tank can carry anywhere from a thousand liters to a thousand and a half liters. Next, visually assess how much oil you have left. Some heating oil tanks come with calibrations or gauges that will allow you to take accurate measurements of how much oil is left. Deduct this from the total oil capacity of the tank, and you will have the exact number of liters of heating oil that you need. Next, work on the paperwork for the heating oil. You will need to get the Value Added Tax (VAT) paperwork, which will allow you to purchase the oil without paying for the heating oil taxes from Germany. Here is a website with more information about using and purchasing oil for your home.

Voltages

The rental units in Germany have tremendously improved. Newer homes are much larger with modern amenities, all have built in kitchens; additionally, single homes are more common now than in previous years. The power supply is 220 volt and 50 cycles opposed to 110 volts and 60 cycles. Unless your small appliances are dual voltage you will need power transformers. Furnishings Management Office

(FMO) will issue wardrobes, kitchen storage cabinets, microwaves and major appliances (stove, refrigerator, clothes washer and dryer). They will also provide a limited number of transformers. You may want to purchase additional transformers from AAFES, Thrift Shops, or departing service members through Ramstein Yard Sales.
